MERRY CHRISTMAS!

Skagway-Whitehorse Railway World's Toughest To Run

By JACK BRID

(Last of a series on the Northland)

It was early in the morning, and quite dark, I remembered when I first saw the town of Wrangell, on Wrangell Island.

The mountains all around—for I was taking the Inside Passage—were a blue-black with white peaks and ridges. The whole top line of those ridges had stood out sharp and clear against a light blue sky that was full of stars.

I recalled how cold and silent it had looked up there on those mountain tops of ice and snow, and there was a feeling of endless time about it all. Along the shore there had been the sound of many birds. Although it was mid-November, it seemed like spring to hear the continual twittering and chirping of bird life.

GRAND COUNTRY

Alaska means "Great Country" and that is just what it is—a great country—and the last American frontier. The capital is Juneau. Coming upon it at night from the sea, it is a mass of yellow lights that at a distance seem to twinkle.

This town of 7,500 is built along the narrow shore-line and sides of a mountain. On the steep flanks of the mountain, at one end of the town, is a big gold mine, all lit up, with heaps of rock and dirt right down to the water's edge.

Skagway is at the north end of the Lynn Canal. As the ship draws up to the dock you notice on your right that the whole face of the high gray cliff is one mass of ship's names, and dates, crests and house flags. They are all painted in colors, and are expertly done. It is called a ship's register.

Skagway today is only a ghost of its former self. In its heyday, when the '80s were going over White Pass to the Klondike, there were some 10,000 people in Skagway, and they had 90 saloons. Today there are only 650 people and two saloons—or cocktail bars, as they are really called.

PACK TRAIN INN

As you walk through the town you see on every hand the old buildings of the days of '98 all boarded up, and sadly in need of paint—if they ever were painted in the first place, which looks doubtful. The old original saloon, called "The Pack Train Inn," still stands and is still in use.

I went in and had a look at its bar. But all the trappings of former times are gone, although one may see them, as I did, in the private museum of one of the two hotels. Both these hotels are run by the same woman. In this bar of the Pack Train, Robert W. Service had drunk, and Frank Gotch, one-time heavyweight champion wrestler of the world, and Tex Rickard, the promoter, and other notables.

COST MILLIONS

From Skagway I took the train to Whitehorse, 110 miles away. Because so much of this roadbed was carved and blasted out of the solid rock of the sides of the mountains, it cost approximately ten million dollars to build it. Finished in 1900, it is called the toughest railroad in the world to operate.

It is wild and rugged, this pass, and three engines pulled our 12 cars over the nearly 2,900-foot hump, with its Dead Horse Gulch down below. Although it was warm and raining, Skagway, there was snow on the ground up at the pass and more was coming down.

Our train travelled along the whole shore-line of Lake Bennett, which is a 27-mile-long body of pale green water that lies between two rows of brown mountains, that slope back from its edge. Half this lake is in northern British Columbia, the other half is in the Yukon.

Lake Bennett today is a scene of quiet grandeur and beauty, but the days of '98 it was a hive of industry. As many as 5,000 men were there in tents, for here it was that the stamperers, having crossed the pass, built their boats and rafts and scows to take them the rest of the way by water up the Klondike.

ONLY A CHURCH LEFT

Today the only thing standing of those former times is the little Presbyterian church. It is only a shell of a building, with log slabs nailed to its frame-work. I don't think there ever was a wooden floor in it, for the floor is all sand; no platform up front and no pulpit and no inside wall, just the bare ribs of the frame. The skin of some animal hangs on one wall, and some old dog harness and long dog sleighs and several beds clutter up the place.

I remember wondering, as I stood there in its one main room, how many of the stamperers in their mad rush for the gold fields, ever stopped long enough to worship here.

(The End)

Once upon a time—according to Harz mountain legend—a poor miner's wife was gathering pine cones in the forest. It was just before Christmas, her husband was ill, and there was no money in the house for food. So, she gathered the cones and sold them to the villagers for kindling—obtaining enough for the day's necessities.

One morning while she was looking for such cones, a little imp jumped out of a huge fir tree. "Here, here are the biggest, driest cones of all. Take these," he shrieked, jumping up and down excitedly.

Suddenly, there was such a shower of cones that the poor woman was frightened. She tried to run away, but could not move until the little imp had filled her basket. And, having started home, the basket grew heavier and heavier—she wished the elf hadn't disappeared, he might have helped her.

When she finally reached her hut, she called the children to help carry the basket inside. Emptying the basket, they found that every cone was made of solid silver.

Commemorating these legendary silver cones, gilded pine cones are sold in modern stores, to decorate our homes—to burn and crackle gaily in our Christmas fires.

Pagan Rites Basis Of Many Customs

Strange as it may seem, most American Christmas customs stem long before Pagan rites practiced long before the birth of Christ.

The custom of exchanging gifts is one of the few that springs from the Christian era. Christmas candles, bonfires and Yule logs arise from the heathen festivals observing the winter solstice, December 21, when the days begin to lengthen. That was a time of great rejoicing for ancient sun worshippers who built bonfires to give strength to the "winter sun-god."

Pre-Christian Romans ornamented their homes with green boughs and flowers for the Feast of Saturnalia which began December 19. Druids gathered mistletoe for that season, while ancient Saxons used holly, ivy and bay. Modern mistletoe and holly wreaths come from those people.

Christmas trees, too, spring from the ancient German days when German tribes made sacrifices to the sacred oak tree of Odin. When the missionary St. Boniface traveled to Germany in the Eighth Century and saw these celebrations he persuaded the natives to substitute a fir tree for the oak and to adorn it in a tribute to the Christ Child.

During the Middle Ages the entire Christmas season was celebrated in equal fervor with that now shown on Christmas day. In some lands the celebration lasted from December 24 to January 6—Twelfth Night—and in others from December 21 to February 2. By the year 1644, Christmas in England had become such a wild orgy that the Puritans forbade its celebration by law.

Most powerful weapon in the fight against tuberculosis is the X-ray. Christmas Seal dollars are still needed to buy more X-ray equipment. If you haven't sent your, do it now.

Mistaken Efficiency

REDLANDS, Calif.—The city is out $95 because one of its refuse collectors guessed wrong. An auto supply firm scoured southern California for a certain type of automobile fender. It finally was delivered, but after closing hours. Early next morning, the rubbish truck came by. Leaning against a door was the fender. But it was too big to get in the truck. So the trucker carefully ran over it several times to reduce its size. The city council heard the story, agreed to foot the bill.

Illustrating a Point

DETROIT.—Patrolman John Major and Roland Knight of suburban Ferndale noticed a car parked in a wooded, secluded area early in the morning.

"Don't you know this is dangerous?" they asked the boy and girl occupying it. "There might be men lurking around here with guns."

Major flashed his light around in a grand gesture. The beam showed a man crouched near the car and carrying a revolver. The prowler was held.

Grave Error

TULSA, Okla.—A grave error was committed by an automobile burglar. He slashed a hole in the parked car's top and fled with a handsome suit of men's clothing. But there was a slight catch. They were burial garments—false front affairs with zippers up the back.

HOLLYWOOD. — Hal Wallis recently put "September", his 16th production for Paramount, before the camera with a cast headed by Joan Fontaine and Joseph Cotten under direction of William Dieterle.

Exteriors for the romantic drama were filmed in Italy with Fontaine and Cotten appearing in sequences filmed in Rome, Naples, Florence, at the ruins of Pompeii and on the Isle of Capri.

Françoise Rosay, the noted French character actress, who scored heavily in the English production of Somerset Maugham's "Quartet", reports to Wallis this week for the start of her role.

The Christ-child lay on Mary's lap. His hair was like a light. (O weary, weary were the world, But here is all aright.)

The Christ-child lay on Mary's breast.

His hair was like a star. (O stern and cunning are the kings, But here the true hearts are.)

The Christ-child lay on Mary's heart. His hair was like a fire. (O weary, weary is the world, But here the world's desire.)

The Christ-child stood at Mary's knee. His hair was like a crown, And all the flowers looked up at Him, And all the stars looked down.

—G. K. Chesterton.

Magi Were Priests Of Persian Religion

Along about this time of the year there's a lot written, said and sung about the Magi. Just who were the Magi, anyway?

The Magi were priests of an ancient Persian religion called Zoroastrianism. The Greek historian Herodotus gives a very favorable account of them and their influence in a society which existed four hundred years before Christ's birth.

According to Herodotus the Magi were powerful in public and private affairs. They conducted the education of the young princes, and were in "constant attendance upon the king as counselors."

This description of a Magi appears in the sacred writing of Zoroaster: "Thou shouldst call him priest, who sits the whole night thru and years for holy wisdom that enables man to stand upon death's bridge fearless and with happy heart, the wisdom whereby he attains the holy and glorious world of paradise."

The three Magi, or Wise Men, who followed the Star of Bethlehem and brought gifts of gold, frankincense and myrrh to the Christ child remain nameless, but they were the first to recognize the importance of the birth of the Prince of Peace.

One Scotch factory now produces more than 2,100,000 alarm clocks a year.

ALL FUSE AGE AND NO WINGS

They look like any other chickens, except that they are almost all fuse-age and no wings. A Des Moines, Iowa, breeder developed the new strain of chickens after 12 years of patiently mating birds accidentally born without wings or with wings stunted. They will be shown in the National Farm show in Chicago this month.

Healthful Ventilation

In every office and workshop warmth, moisture and used-up air . . . not to mention dust and tobacco smoke . . . are being given off all the time by the occupants. Unless the air is kept moving it becomes stagnant and oppressive and good, accurate work becomes difficult. Good ventilation is essential to the health of workers. A well ventilated workshop soon pays for itself in increased production.

Fun And Games

Children need plenty of freedom for open-air games and sports. They need to run, jump, skip and climb if their bodies are to develop healthfully and their minds to mature normally.

Not Dead, Just Hungry

EVANSVILLE, Ind. — "I'll never live to bet back to Evansville," said a note found on a road near Worthington, Ind. The name of Mrs. Allene Griffith of Evansville was found on a scrap of paper near by.

Mrs. Griffith, awakened at her home by apprehensive officers, explained that she had written the note to a friend at a convention at Indianapolis when it ran past lunch time and she was becoming famished.

Then, motoring home, she had decided to clean out her purse along the highway.

Tuberculosis never rests or takes a holiday. It must be fought not only at Christmas time but all year round. Your Christmas Seals will have been only bits of colored paper unless you send in your donation to help save a life.

SANTA CLAUS is one of the most precious wonders of childhood. American mothers overwhelmingly agree that he should be portrayed as the spirit of generosity, kindness, and gift-giving.

Although the modern conception of Santa Claus is American, the Spirit of Santa Claus is neither modern nor American. The real Saint Nicholas lived in Asia Minor and ever since his death in 343 stories concerning him have been repeated around the freeways of Europe.

The children of Lapland and northern climates naturally picture Santa dressed in fur and dashing through the snow in a reindeer-drawn sleigh. But in central Europe, St. Nicholas first appeared on his liturgical feast day, December 6, and he was a thin, austere churchman who rode a mule and carried gifts for good children and a bundle of birch rods with which to switch the naughty.

Under Dutch influence St. Nicholas lost his solemnity. The Dutch colonists who brought him to America were very practical people and they decided against two gift-giving days in the same month. Thus, Sinter Klass started coming around only at Christmas time.

Santa Gets a Sleigh. Eventually, ancient legends were woven into American Christmas traditions. Washington Irving sent St. Nicholas flying through Christmas skies in a reindeer-drawn sleigh in 1809. Dr. Clement Moore's poem "The Night Before Christmas," written in 1822, gave Santa . . .

a little round belly that shook when he laughed, like a bowl full of jelly; . . . and a series of drawings in 1868 by Thomas Nast added much to the traditional pictures and appearance of the Santa we see today.

In every youngster's life there comes the time when he begins to suspect that the various bewhiskered gentlemen, so numerous during this season, are not exactly the real Santa Claus. Wise parents advance the "helper" theory as soon as they are asked questions and teach their children to make the Christmas dreams of less fortunate tots and their families come true.

Thus, the real Santa Claus isn't just myth or legend. He is the Spirit of Christmas who lives in the sparkling eyes of children and in the hearts of all grown-ups who strive for peace and good will among men.

THE little gift shop was crowded when Nancy entered it, but almost immediately she noticed Larry Bryant. She sensed the usual disturbance at sight of him, and recalling the trend of her thoughts for the past several minutes brought a flush of warmth to her cheeks. She'd been thinking, somewhat resentfully, as she went along the busy streets of the little town, how unfair it was that Christmas had come before she could get acquainted with someone in Davenshire—Larry Bryant, for instance, departmental head at the electric plant where she worked. Christmas wasn't Christmas unless it could be shared with someone.

And now Larry was standing at the dish counter deciding about a pair of little green rabbit salt and pepper shakers. It didn't matter particularly that he'd buy the shakers—aside from the significance of such an act—but she'd had her own heart set on them more or less for a week. Larry had been in the shop every afternoon that she'd been there, but this was his first time at the dish counter. The little shakers were as good as gone.

The other day when she'd looked at them, the sales girl had said, "Better buy them. These are the last ones, and they are a bargain at eight dollars. They come all the way from Sweden."

"I know," Nancy had said, but she had thought they'd be an extravagance and look out of place on the little table in her corner

The other day when she'd looked at them, the sales girl had said, "Better buy them."

Brown and Neale Win Coach Awards

Paul Brown and Greasy Neale have been chosen all-pro coaches of the year.

Brown, who pilots the Cleveland Browns, was named "coach of the year" in the All-American Conference while Neale, mentor of the Philadelphia Eagles was given same recognition in the National Football League.

Rated as the most offensive minded coach in the game, has spent 40 years in football either as player or coach. His colorful career includes outfielding for the Reds in the famed 1919 World Series and coaching Washington and Jefferson football teams to a Rose Bowl berth in 1922.

Brown, who was declared too puny to make the football squad at Ohio State, is a 41-year-old coaching genius. He has moulded a championship team in all four years of conference play.

kitchenette at Lil Ransom's old rooming house. Then there'd be no one to admire them—only herself.

"They might be gone the next time you come," the girl had said when Nancy left the counter.

But they'd been there the next time Nancy went back to the little gift shop. Every afternoon for a week they'd been there, as if awaiting for her to make up her mind to buy them.

Nancy held her breath as she watched Larry from a distance. For now she knew that if he didn't take the shakers, she'd buy them herself.

But even as Nancy watched, she saw him hand the shakers to a clerk.

She tried to push her disappointment aside and select an inexpensive little gift for one of her co-workers at the plant. Tomorrow was Christmas Eve, and the employees and officials of the plant had drawn names as part of a gift-giving program they'd planned to have about the huge, gayly decorated tree in the arched entrance.

Nancy dreaded the occasion, more so now than before. She regretted the day she'd left her home town to take a better job in Davenshire. Why hadn't she waited until after Christmas to make the change.

When the time came the next day for the program, Nancy took the gift that was handed to her and slipped from the crowd. She wouldn't be missed, she thought bitterly, as she hurried from the building. Snow fell softly about her in a gentle burst from the dark sky, and the ring of voices from the plant followed her in a kind of haunting sad beauty.

Inside her apartment she looked down at the gayly wrapped package in her hands through a blur of tears. It was the only Christmas gift she'd received, and it had been given because someone had drawn her name.

She unwrapped the package, and suddenly the blur cleared to reveal the little green rabbit salt and pepper shakers with the long, saucy ears—one up and one limping down provocatively.

Her heart thumped in her throat. Larry had drawn her name. But the cost of the gifts they were to exchange was not to go over twenty-five cents!

Lil Ransom called up the stairs. "You're wanted on the phone, and it's a man."

Nancy placed the little shakers carefully on the table and turned to the door. The hum of "Silent Night" came from Lil Ransom's radio up the sweep of stairs, and Nancy found herself singing the words softly as she dashed down them, for she knew even before she heard his voice who was waiting for her on the telephone.

Christmas Trees Big Business

Believe it or not Christmas tree ornaments in Canada and U.S. is big business—a $60 million business.

More than 25,000,000 trees are cut each year, with approximately 1,500,000 coming from natural forests and the rest from privately-owned lands.

Pine and balsams are the favorite types of all Christmas tree hunters, balsam being the most sought after because of its bushy branches and fragrant woody aroma.

When buying a tree it is wise to pick out one that has been freshly cut, the fresher it is the greener it will be and the more aromatic and safer against fire hazard.

Remember Christmas trees are thirsty and before you put it in your household it is wise to see that

Paul Ronly Stars For Boston Bruins

A "Busy Bruin"—that is Paul Ronly—21-year-old centre of the Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League.

Acclaimed as one of the most promising stars in the major ice circuit, Ronly is doing a bang-up job for the Boston club this year.

Canadian born of Finnish descent, Ronly came to the Bruins two years ago, but was declared not quite ready for the big time and although he saw some action under the big tent, he did most of his playing with the Bruins' farm club, the Hershey Bears.

Last year he contraed a line with newcomer Johnny Pionson and Kenny Smith, picking up 20 goals and 29 assists for a season's total of 49 points. This season with the same combination he seems headed for even greater things. Line-mate Pionson is also doing quite well and is among the top scorers in the loop.

Foxs Suggests "Hall Of Fame" On Wheels

A veteran of 22 years in big time baseball, Jimmy Fox has suggested that baseball's "Hall of Fame" be put on wheels and taken on a nation-wide tour.

Claiming that "few people—maybe a few thousand"—visit baseball's shrine at Cooperstown, N.Y. during the year, Fox said he believed that a roving caravan containing all the pieces of equipment used by the baseball immortals who gain Hall of Fame honor, would prove a tremendous value in stimulation of baseball interest throughout the country.

Fox formerly played first base for Philadelphia Athletics and Boston Red Sox.

Hawaii Grid Star To Play At Frisco

Harry Kahuanui, six-foot-four, 210-pound end of the University of Hawaii, has accepted an invitation to play for the western team in San Francisco's annual East-West Charity Football classic to be staged on New Year's Eve, Dec. 31.

It will mark the first time in history that a Hawaiian has performed in the classic. Proceeds of pitfall for Crippled Children.

Central Alberta Ice Loop Underway

Central Alberta Hockey League swung into action for the 1950 season Thursday, December 15th, with all six teams in the circuit in action.

All six clubs were in action again on Saturday, December 17, with Wetaukwin playing at Alia, Camrose at Ponoka, and Red Deer at Stettler.

The 60-game schedule closes February 9th, when the top four teams will meet in the playoffs for the league championship.

It is always well to observe the standard precautions against fire. Avoid inflammable trimmings and keep bulbs from tinsel.

Keep the tree well away from radiators, fireplaces and candles.

Replace damaged light cords and check your electric decorations.

Don't be too sentimental. When the needles begin to dry and fall, face the facts. It's time to pack up the decorations for another year and remove the tree.

IT WAS enough to put a fellow in a morbid state of mind. Last Christmas he'd thought, when he gave Sally the inexpensive little china dinner set, next Christmas I'll give her something really nice. Something she can wear and enjoy. Something expensive. It'll not be practical to fit our Christmas budget, because by then I'll be making more. The tide was bound to turn by next Christmas.

Well, it had turned all right. Fate could have been less callous in the direction to which it had turned the tide. It was even worse this Christmas than it was last. All right Sally

He'd felt like a cad. There wasn't another guy in the whole universe who'd been so loyal to her through her loyalty would even tell a falsehood. Sally didn't deserve the hardship he was giving her. And now with Christmas upon them and no money of his own, unless he sold his best suit to the re-sale shop down the street, he felt it would be even better for his old hat to quit the job than to face it and have Sally say, "Oh, you didn't need to give anything, Bill. All I want is you!" We'll have a real Christmas when you get well.

Bill put on his overcoat, hat and galoshes. It was about time to meet Sally coming home from work.

Cold rain interpreted the snow and already the highway in front of their place was getting coated with ice. Cars moved along cautiously.

Their neighbor's boy, Pike, eleven, slid by him on a sled. "Whew—e, watch me, Mister Bill!"

Bill looked up from his overcoat collar. "Hey, be careful!" he shouted.

wasn't out making the living and he a big bulk of a man, staying home.

The doctor had said he'd overcome the heart condition with prolonged rest.

People were talking. Bill knew. He'd been standing near the living room door the other day when he'd heard Kate Tyler, their neighbor, talking to Sally in the kitchen.

"Well, it just looks a shame that you, such a frail little thing, must work. Bill looks the picture of health. He weighs something near one hundred eighty pounds, doesn't he, Sally?" Kate said, and Bill had visioned with bumping, resentment sharp, in everybody's business nose twitch with inquisitiveness.

Bill visioned too. Sally's pretty proud head lit when her voice had come in quick sensitive rebellion, "I believe it's my affair about working. I really don't need to work. We have plenty saved up to take us through until Bill is able to go back on his job. I'm working because I want to."

He'd felt like a cad. There wasn't another guy in the whole universe who'd been so loyal to her through her loyalty would even tell a falsehood. Sally didn't deserve the hardship he was giving her. And now with Christmas upon them and no money of his own, unless he sold his best suit to the re-sale shop down the street, he felt it would be even better for his old hat to quit the job than to face it and have Sally say, "Oh, you didn't need to give anything, Bill. All I want is you!" We'll have a real Christmas when you get well.

Bill put on his overcoat, hat and galoshes. It was about time to meet Sally coming home from work.

Cold rain interpreted the snow and already the highway in front of their place was getting coated with ice. Cars moved along cautiously.

Their neighbor's boy, Pike, eleven, slid by him on a sled. "Whew—e, watch me, Mister Bill!"

Bill looked up from his overcoat collar. "Hey, be careful!" he shouted.

Appetizing New Fruit Products

Research leads to the development of appetizing new fruit products which are rich in flavor and of high nutritive value. More of that elusive fresh flavor that so frequently was lost during processing is now being successfully retained in these products.

An excellent example is the new type of opalescent vitamin C fortified apple juice now available.

Greatly improved fruit purées have been developed which may be used not only as baby foods, but as bases for nectars, ice cream flavoring and frozen desserts. Novel fruit spreads, in which the full flavor of the fresh fruit is retained, are reported by United States laboratories to have been made from berries and various tart fruits. These spreads are prepared cold and preserved by freezing, with pectin being used to produce jellifying.

While efforts are continually being made to retain in the product the natural full flavor of the fresh fruit, processes also have been developed to extract the volatile flavor substances from fresh fruits. This "essence" is concentrated and may be added to various fruit products to give them a more characteristic and satisfying taste. The process has potential commercial possibilities.

SPORT SHORTS

New Westminster Royals and San Francisco Shamrocks are dominating the early stages of the Pacific Coast Hockey League race. The Rocks setting the pace in the southern section of the circuit and the Royals front running the northern division.

Victoria, newest entry in the northern division of the Pacific Coast Hockey League, has done exceptionally well at the gate thus far, playing to a full house almost every time. The club, however, hasn't fared as well as the victory column.

Tacoma recently established a Pacific Coast Hockey League scoring record with a 13-2 victory over the Fresno Falcons.

New York Rangers of the National Hockey League hope to save 150,000 gallons of Gotham's scarce drinking water after each game played at Madison Square Gardens. They intend thawing the rink after each game and pumping the water for refuse into a tank being placed in the Garden's basement. It takes approximately 6,000 gallons of water each game and the Rangers have 35 home contests. This move they hope will help the city's current water shortage. New York's reservoirs are said to be about one-third full at present.

Dallas, Texas, has put in a bid for the annual championship tournament of the National Baseball Congress, requesting that it be held in Burnet Stadium for five years starting 1951. It has been held at Wichita, Kan., since 1935.

Golfers playing around the sporty nine-hole El Morro course at San Juan, Puerto Rico, have more than natural bunkers to overcome. One hole, a par three iron shot, must be played over a 100-foot-high Spanish moat, part of the ancient defences of San Juan. The green is "hidden" behind the moat and it takes a smart golfer to play this shot accurately. Caddies take vantage points on the moat to follow the flight of the golf ball.

Two Toronto Maple Leaf baseball hurlers finished one-two in the International Baseball League's earned run average during the 1949 season. They are Emory "Bubba" Church and John "Joek" Thompson. Albert Joseph Widmar of the Baltimore Orioles finished in third position.

The Baltimore Board of Recreation and Parks has reversed its action of August 20 and renamed the city's new stadium, the Baltimore Memorial Stadium. It had previously named it the Bab Ruth Stadium.

Ray Lamanno, who caught for Syracuse Chiefs last year has been sold outright to Seattle Rainiers of the Pacific Coast League.

ODDS ON SPORT

Only 12 members of the Brooklyn Dodgers of 1949 were with the club when it faced the New York Yankees in the 1947 World Series.

Earl "Red" Blaik, Army football coach, is now in his ninth year and has held this post longer than any of his 22 predecessors.

Hal Saltzman, 24-year-old right hander who won 23 and lost 13 for Portland last season will do his playing with the Cleveland Indians next year. He was purchased recently in a player and cash deal.

The minstrels played their Christmas tune.
Tonight beneath my cottage eaves;
While, smitten by a lofty moon,
The encircling laurels, thick with leaves,
Gave back a rich and dazzling sheen,
That overpowered their natural green.

Through hill and valley every breeze
Had sunk to rest with folded wings;
Even was the air, but could not freeze.
Nor check the music of the strings;
So stout and hardy were the band
That scraped the chords with strenuous hand.

And who but listened? till was paid
Respect to every inmate's claim;
The greeting given, the music played
In honor of each household name,
Duly pronounced with lusty call,
And "merry Christmas" wished to all!

—William Wordsworth.

The bell, the world's oldest and simplest musical instrument, is the world's most universal Yuletide symbol. Each nation has its individual symbols of Christmas, but the bell will be found somewhere in the traditions of every one.

Bell authorities claim that Pope Sixtinus gave us the first church bells in 604. The custom has grown until there is no use of church bells so widely known as the ringing of the chimcs to herald the advent of the birth of Christ.

In recent years the ancient bell has "grown up" into the carillon, a highly sensitive instrument on which Christmas carols seem to find their most perfect expression.

Quality Potatoes From Muck Soils

Although potatoes of low cooking quality are frequently grown on muck soils, it is quite possible to produce a crop of excellent cooking and keeping quality on this soil type.

At the Dominion Experimental Substation for muck lands, at Ste. Clothilde, Quebec, a large number of experiments in connection with the nutrition of the potato crop have been conducted during the past ten years. These experiments have shown that without exception good quality on this soil type is associated with high yield, and high yields are obtained only with a correct balance of nutrients.

The amount of fertilizer to apply will depend to some extent on the available soil moisture. On non-irrigated, dry muck land areas it is probable that no more than one thousand pounds of 2-8-16 per acre can be utilized by a potato crop.

On other areas where water control is effected by seepage irrigation, or other means, a profitable response may be obtained from applications up to two thousand pounds per acre; providing climatic conditions are satisfactory.

On the muck land areas of Southwestern Quebec, crops of four hundred to five hundred bushels per acre are being consistently obtained with applications of fifteen hundred pounds of 2-8-16 per acre.

Furthermore, potatoes from this region are in strong demand on the wholesale markets and meet with ready sale.

Newcomer To Make Debut In 'Outrage'

HOLLYWOOD.—A 22-year-old Mexican youth who has never been in a motion picture, recently was given an important role in Fine-Thomas' "Outrage." Paramount release about modern mob violence. He will share top roles with co-stars Gail Russell and Macdonald Carey.

The youth is Lalo Rips, born in San Miguelito, Mexico. He was moved to Los Angeles in 1936 with his parents. Last year he joined a youth club and appeared in a historical play centred around the history of Los Angeles.

Joseph Losey, who is directing "Outrage," saw the play and arranged for an interview with Producers Pine and Thomas. He was signed for the part without even a test.

A Nickel's Not Enough

CLAYTON, Mo.—In a divorce petition filed in Circuit Court here, Fred H. Becker, a machinist, alleged that his wife, Theresa, forced him to wash dishes, clean the house, mop the floors and wash his own clothes. In addition to having to do all the housework, Becker said his wife took all of his pay and gave him only a nickel a day for a cup of coffee.

'Christmas Music By Bach, Handel

For a great many people the music of Bach and Handel make difficult listening — until Christmas comes around. Then, suddenly, everybody starts singing and humming tunes by the two old masters.

The reason for this is that both Bach and Handel were church musicians. One of their tasks was to compose songs for church congregations to sing. They proved themselves masters of beautiful, easily followed melodies in their Christmas music. Our most famous Christmas oratorios and carols came from Bach and Handel.

"How Brightly Beams the Morning Star" was composed by Bach and his "Christmas Oratorio" contains the themes of several other popular chorales.

In almost every town and village in America this Christmas a church choir will render at least a portion of George Frederick Handel's "Messiah." When carolers sing "Joy to the World" they'll be singing part of the "Messiah" too, for that carol comes from themes found in the great oratorio. Handel also composed the musical theme of "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks."

It is a strange fact, but both Bach and Handel were born in 1685, lived for many years within thirty miles of each other, and never met. Yet today, the Christmas music they wrote is sung by men, women and children in countless churches of many faiths all over the world.

Flowers Are Part Of Yule Legends

There are several flowers appropriate during the Yuletide season which are connected with the birth of Christ by the legends of history. Sainfoin, or "Holy Hay," is said to have cradled the infant Christ in the manger. The snowdrop is the flower of the Virgin Mary, and is said to be the emblem of the candles she lighted on Christmas.

According to legend, the Christmas rose was divinely created. A shepherd, maid went out having no gift to lay before the Babe in the manger. Suddenly an angel appeared to her. On hearing why the maiden wept, the angel touched the ground where her tears had fallen and immediately the place was white with Christmas roses, which the maid gathered and laid in the manger.

The chrysanthemum is said to have appeared first on Christmas Eve near the manger as a sign to the Wise Men that they had reached the spot where the star had bidden them.

Parents Can Spoil, Children's Play

Here's a Christmas resolution for parents. It's one that ought to be made before New Year's resolutions are even considered. It goes, "I will keep my hands off the children's toys all day on Christmas." It'll be a hard one to keep because Mother likes to fuss with Ann's doll. She pretends she is shoving Ann how to put on the bonnet, but she's actually having a grand time playing. And once Father gets his hands on the train, or the auto that winds up, the boys can't get near them. It isn't fair. The children are trying for a little peace and freedom. After all, adults can play with toys for the next 364 days if they want to.

Denmark has 203,536 motor vehicles operating—slightly more than in 1919.

Sister Beaupre's Condition Fair

ST. ALBERT.—Reports from the General hospital in Edmonton are that Rev. Sister Beaupre's condition is not much changed following her fall from a trolley bus earlier last week in Edmonton.

The 73 year old nun of the You-ville Convent was seriously injured in her accident. Street railway said that while standing on the side door treadle she fell accidentally.

It is believed that she was partially dragged beneath the bus. She suffered a fractured left shoulder and other bruises and shock.

Motorman G. Oleschuk reported he did not know of the accident until he heard screams from a passenger. He had stopped at 110 street, one block east, and was half way to the next stop at 112 street.

Sister Beaupre, who is in the Order of the Grey Nuns, was on her way to the General hospital in company with another sister, when the accident occurred.

Fatal Accident Blamed On Excessive Drinking

MORINVILLE.—An inquest in the Edmonton City Police Court last week found that excessive consumption of liquor contributed to the accident south of Morinville earlier this month in which the life of Arthur Farrow, 9014 105th Street, Edmonton, was taken.

The jury found that Norman Gowing, Morinville, now charged with manslaughter, was driver of a car which collided with Farrow's auto on December 7th.

Cause of death, jury found, was a fractured skull, broken ribs, hemorrhage of the chest cavity and bruises to the brain.

Occupants of the Gowing car testified that there were a number of blank spots where they "just couldn't remember a thing."

The accident occurred while Farrow was driving his three-day-old car into Edmonton and the others were returning to Morinville from St. Albert.

Evidence presented by Sgt. James Muir, RCMP, was that the auto driven by Gowing was weaving from side to side.

have exploded at anytime and even in the home of this now tenant had he not been fortunate to come upon it in time.

Safety mechanisms in shells and bombs quickly corrode and often only a slight jar is sufficient to set them off, with disastrous results to those nearby.

Reports of death and injuries resulting from war weapon souvenirs are mounting steadily, thus the reason for this warning.

If you have one of these death-dealers, DON'T just throw it over the fence into the neighbor's yard, into a vacant lot or leave it in your home. Handle it with care and turn it over to the nearest police station or local bomb disposal or military officials.

But above all, be sure to remember to handle this weapon with care as rough handling is liable to explode the souvenir.

BRUIN INN

ST. ALBERT

Are YOU harboring a dangerous weapon in your home?

Think it over—have you any unexploded shells, hand grenades, detonators, booby trap mechanisms, or similar types of war material sitting on the mantelpiece, or lying in the trunk?

With the long continued use of those items many veterans cease to think of the potential danger which always is present when these things are around—the services always laid down strict safety precautions to be followed in their handling—and the potential death-dealer is sitting around in scores of homes—a trap to the unsuspecting and usually innocent victim who eventually gets it in the neck.

Recently an Edmonton tenant moved into a new home and discovered a harmless looking war weapon in the premises. He turned it over to the local bomb disposal officials and it was exploded safely at Winterburn reserve. Bomb official report that it may
